SAYS—

Young folks sometimes get hot and bothered and get married on the spur of the moment, whatever that is, then cool down, become calm and collected and get a divorce for some reason or other. To start with if they could be cool and calm instead of hot and bothered there would be no divorce to follow.

Did you ever stop a small boy or small girl, shake hands with them and have something pleasant to say and at the same time slip a nickel in the palm of the little hand? If not you have missed a thrill for yourself and a thrill for the child. When the nickel hits the palm, the little hand closes on it right now, up turns the eyes with a sparkle that is worth the price.

John Dillinger, much wanted man, seems to be in every section of the United States at about the same time. He hasn't called at The Standard office in his rounds, but if he does, we'll try and make it pleasant for him. A rocking chair, a tank of ice water and our art gallery is ready for him at any time.

From the Cape Missourian we learn the dog problem is growing in that city. From the many pup factories running loose in Sikeston it may prove a problem and a menace here in the dog days to come.

After looking at the new styles in bathing suits, the Thayer News Rambler concludes that the nature of the trend is such that it won't be long until the girls do their bathing in a coat of tan, a development which should prove of interest to a fellow down Sikeston way.—K. C. Democrat.

The Standard editor considered it quite an honor to have been invited to make a talk to the congregation of the colored Methodist Church Sunday forenoon. "Self Respect" was the subject.

When State patrolmen visit Caruthersville in the future, in the line of duty, they should go in pairs in order to protect one another. The treatment of Patrolman Dace in that city a few days ago by police officers was little short of cowardly. They jerked his shoulder out of place when they pulled him off a much larger man when he was struck while in the line of duty. Dace should have shot the man when he turned unexpectedly and struck him.

Senator Roscoe Patterson, Republican from Missouri, was never heard from during the Hoover Administration, now bobs up with quite a bit of criticism for the Roosevelt policies. He now says the tariff bill is very dangerous, and it may be so, but something has got to be done so let's tinker with the tariff.

The new postmaster is preparing to do some heavy sitting as he was seen with a large chair pad.

We're mad at Sally Rand, even if she is a Kansas City gal. Colonel Charley Blanton of The Sikeston Standard took time off to see "Bolero", in which she is featured, with every expectation of a big evening. But he left the theatre a disillusioned and disappointed citizen. Sally, it appears, "cavorted around too fast and used the fans at the wrong time" and poor Charley quit with a stiff neck, a sore back and a sprained dorsal fin. He isn't exactly off fan dancers, but he does think Sally done him wrong. That's what we think.—K. C. Democrat.

As a general thing week-end parties are orderly and enjoyable. Then there are weak end parties that didn't turn out so well.

Leo Pfefferkorn is a candidate for re-election as Circuit Clerk of the Democratic ticket at the primary in August. The new term for which he is a candidate will be paid on a fee basis which will bring the salary much less than now paid. Leo has made a good officer and hopes the voters will give him the second term.

A letter from Miss Carrie Tippey, a teacher in a Baptist Orphanage at Franklin, Tenn., enclosed her subscription for another year to The Standard, for which we thank her. She has in her charge 41 boys from 8 to 12 years of age and states she enjoys her work.

Chickie Jewell wants to know what woman invited him to a kissing party the other night!

The School Board will meet Wednesday night to fill vacancies caused by resignations. Superintendent Ellis has had splendid support heretofore and the new selections will undoubtedly give him 100 per cent co-operation as will The Standard.

DACE IS ASSAULTED IN CARUTHERSVILLE

Trooper Melvin Dace, of the State Highway Patrol office here, was assaulted Thursday by L. J. Hazel of Caruthersville, when he warned Hazel to buy a Missouri license for his automobile, which at the time had a Georgia tag.

Dace went to see Hazel after he had received a letter of complaint stating that although he had lived in Missouri for some time, Hazel carried a Georgia tag on his new Studebaker car. When Dace questioned the merchant about this infraction of law, Hazel cursed and taunted him. Then Dace invited him to the edge of town, but as the two reached the street in front of the store, Hazel, who was ahead, turned around and struck the patrolman.

Dace soon knocked Hazel down and got on him. However, two Caruthersville officers, who had joined a growing crowd, forcibly pulled him from the prostrate figure, badly wrenching his shoulder as they did.

Dace then requested Hazel to go with him before a justice of the peace, and when the man refused, took hold of him to force him. But again the local officers intervened, this time grabbing both of Dace's arms, and Dace was forced to free himself to avoid being struck by Hazel. Wishing to prevent further trouble, Dace agreed that someone else should take Hazel to court.

The shoulder was dislocated, and according to Sgt. R. R. Reed, who had also gone to Caruthersville but was not present at the altercation, numb and useless from the severe twisting which the policeman gave it.

Hazel was arrested, but later released, and charges against him of operating his automobile without a proper license were dismissed when he bought a tag Friday.

Portageville of Dickson, who obtained a confession from him. Before Houston H. Buckley, United States Commissioner at Hayti, he pled guilty and was retained to appear in the federal court at Cape Girardeau.

Disbennett was living alone in the shack in poverty and told officers he had begun counterfeiting to make a living. Records of the relief bureau showed that he was issued food rations numerous times until the supply was exhausted. It is thought that he may possibly have confessed quickly in order to secure food and living quarters in prison.

Disbennett is said to have served a term in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., on a similar charge and to have gone to his present home after his release last fall. He had been under government surveillance for some time. Two months ago Dickson and Sgt. Reed searched his house but were unable to find anything.

DILLINGER'S SPECTER SPEEDILY TRAVERSES SOUTHEAST MISSOURI

Stories of the ubiquitous Mr. Dillinger have been circulating for several weeks. It is obvious that he either possesses seven-league boots or practices legerdemain for he has been reported seen or heard of at the same time in almost every middle western town. Those who have been disappointed that he has failed to bring any publicity to this district may now be happy, for at last a tale of his very near presence has spread about Southeast Missouri.

Friday night, two men, one looking "very much like Dillinger", stopped their V-8 Ford at a service station in Benton to get gas. When the tank was filled they presented the attendant a $100 bill for change. Alarmed at the sight of so much money as well as the presence of two machine guns reclining on the front seat between the men, the attendant hurried to his station to call Dr. U. P. Haw, while the supposed fugitives escaped.

Dr. Haw, in turn, notified authorities. Then, because it was thought the car had gone toward Sikeston, the Highway Patrol office here was reached. A search of roads by the troopers revealed nothing.

Not long after it was said that a suspicious looking automobile sped through Hayti before once more and this time completely disappearing into the night.

More than 100 Masons and an equal number of members of the Eastern Star, as well as friends and acquaintances, including 150 persons who came from Chaffee on a special train, filled the Methodist Church here Sunday afternoon as testimony for William Thomas Malone, who died in St. Louis Thursday morning, following a heart attack.

Before the services the Masons gathered at 2 o'clock at Mr. Malone's house to escort to the church his body which had been brought here Friday morning by Harvey S. Johnson and C. E. Brown.

At the church Harry Dover sang Mr. Malone's favorite song, "Sing Me To Sleep", and a quartet composed of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kirk, Mrs. Ed Hollingsworth and Harry Dover, sang "Old Rugged Cross" and "God Be With You Till We Meet Again". Then the Rev. E. H. O'rear spoke in part as follows:

"He never knew how many friends he had because the many little acts of kindness by which he charged his acquaintance and friends were too numerous to count" he said. "He had a pleasant personality and was most accommodating in his relations with the public. His kindness was a virtue which was extended to all in every station of life.

"There were no ulterior motives in his friendliness. It was a natural characteristic of his nature. He had in a great degree a human sympathy for the distressed. He was charitable to a fault and often to his own hurt, for he could not say no when someone was in trouble and came to him for assistance. He fed the hungry and no one at all worthy of consideration appealed to him in vain.

"Naturally, a life of helpfulness, charity, kindness and pleasantness will receive a response, and Mr. Malone was much appreciated by the general public whom he served. There is a universal feeling of sadness and deep regret at his untimely death, and his many acts of kindness and his effective endeavors to accommodate are here recounted.

He was rather inclined to be quiet. He was a good listener and was not talkative unless someone started to argue against his favorite baseball team or player. Then he would earnestly defend them. He was an ardent lover of our national game of baseball and had his favorites both of teams and players and could intelligently talk about them.

FIRE DESTROYS HOME ON KATHLEEN STREET

A fire of undetermined origin early Saturday morning destroyed most of the five-room house belonging to S. N. Shepherd at 338 Kathleen street and all of the family's furniture and clothes. The loss, only partly covered by insurance, was estimated at $1200.

No one was in the house at the time of the fire, and when neighbors discovered it at 4 o'clock in the morning most of the roof was in flames. After an hour's work, members of the fire department, who arrived as the roof was falling in, were able to stop the blaze, but nothing was saved from the interior.

Ten days ago a tenant moved from the house, and since that time the Shepherds had been living there. By chance they stayed at their cafe on Malone Avenue Friday night and so did not go to the house.

A small fire was laid in a circulating heater in the home, but it is not thought that this could have started the blaze. Two trunks of clothes and all the furniture were completely demolished, as were the roof and interior walls of the house. The front porch and side walls, though seriously damaged, were not wholly burned.

The Shepherds have made no plans for rebuilding or purchasing another home, and for the present will remain at their cafe.

Lynn Sutton, son of J. Z. Sutton, was arrested at about 6:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon and was charged with reckless driving and with being drunk before Judge Joseph W. Myers. Bond, which was set at $300, was signed by Leon Ansell and Jack Leair.

Sutton was found unconscious in his car parked on the shoulder of Highway 60, three miles east of town. It is said that he had earlier in the afternoon hit another car. The date for the trial has not yet been set.

Mr. Simpson was able to arrange for this broadcast through the co-operation of the independent refineries from which he buys products and of the Quaker State Refinery Company.

SIMPSON OIL CO. WILL BROADCAST OVER KMOX

H. G. Simpson, of the Simpson Oil Company, an independent marketer buying from independent refineries, has arranged to use fifteen minutes of radio station KMOX to advertise Southeast Missouri.

The broadcast will be given from 5:15 to 5:30 o'clock three days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, of each week, beginning this Thursday and will immediately precede the Teaberry hour.

This is the first time a Southeast Missouri firm has ever contracted for a broadcast over a St.

More than 800 people attended a singing convention which was held from 10 to 4 o'clock Sunday at the Miner Baptist church.

The Rev. Lawrence Ray, pastor of the church, welcomed the visitors, and Gordie Evans made an opening prayer. Choirs from churches at Salcedo, Pleasant Valley, Harricane Ridge, Miner Switch, Big Ridge, Rootwad, Little Vine, Boardman and from Kentucky alternated in singing group numbers and their members solos, quartets and duets.

At noon the people ate basket dinners at tables which had been built at the rear of the church. The next convention will be held at Little Vine in July.

Paul Galloway left for Tampa, Fla., Monday afternoon to be with his father, who is very ill in that city with a complication of diseases.

THREE ARE ARRESTED HELD IN COUNTY JAIL

Tom Johnson, 35-year-old former convict, who was arrested near Marble Hill Wednesday and charged with the robbery of two Zalma stores and with the attempted robbery of a store in Advance, has been put in the Bollinger county jail. He will plead not guilty to the charges.

The car in which he was driving with a woman companion was said to have contained merchandise stolen in the Zalma store. It bore a license issued to Jess Buckner of Millersville. Buckner, with Roy Perkins, was arrested Thursday evening at a filling station near the Highway 53 bridge over the St. Francis River in the extreme edge of Butler County.

Later, he and Johnson's companion were released. It is tho't that only one person effected the Zalma robbery. Perkins, however, was held and charged with the burglary of a house in Millersville Easter Sunday. He is now in jail at Jackson.

When Perkins stated that Robert Jacob of Millersville had given him a gun which was found on him, Patrolman Percy R. Little of the Highway Patrol office here questioned Jacob. Jacob denied knowledge of the gun, so he was taken Sunday to Bloomfield to confront Perkins. Before the end of the interview he had confessed to stealing the gun. He is also now being held in Jackson.

So much bunk of one sort or other has come into this office from all kinds of branches of farm credits and banking institutions handling the different lines of credit to save the farmer his land and the home owner his home, that we wonder if a single individual in Sikeston or vicinity has been benefited by any of these aids and if so, we would like to hear from them and just how they did it, and what else besides their land or home, their personal property, and wife and children, they had to put up for security. Just another mess of hooey.

RAIL NEGOTIATIONS: Joseph B. Eastman, center, Federal Coordinator of Transportation, started his attempt to compromise the deadlock between railroads and the railroad brotherhoods, by conferring with a group of rail chiefs.

JEANIE COOKS TO Music—Jeanie Lang, radio ingenue of the popular Powder Box Revue is crazy about cooking and naturally loves to cook. An admirer has given her a compact Atwater Kent for her kitchen and the star now invariably cooks to music. Also, she admits being an ardent follower of the crime broad casts of the police.

SITTING DOWN and with only a script to guide them, these three remarkable young women hold the attention of millions of radio fans five mornings a week. They create the famous Super Suds characters, Clara, Lu 'n' Em, whose talk is miles long and packed with a rich, homely wisdom. Broadcasting, as you see them here, they are—oddly enough—(left to right) Em, Clara, 'n' Lu.

Miss Hopkins wears a light weight tweed suit in a soft shade of gray, with a matching hat of rough straw in the style of a wide-brimmed Breton sailor. Brighter color is introduced into the ensemble in the light blue and gray striped scarf, which is short and crisp.

plete until next Christmas.

The trek began from the Buckland River Valley, Alaska, at Christmas, 1929, so the trip, when completed, will have consumed five years. When it began the expectation was that less than half this time would be necessary.

The herd was purchased by the Canadian government from the Lomer Brothers Corporation in Alaska, and is to be used to supply food and skins for the 4600 Eskimos in the territories, about half of whom, however, live far from the grazing grounds elected for the new home of the herd.

The dozen herders in charge of the deer have put in more than four exciting years. They have had to fight off wolves, which constantly attack the herd. Sickness and accidents to the deer also have kept them busy, but one of their most trying difficulties has been the strong homing instinct of their charges. The deer have often stampeded and doubled back on their trail in search of the country from which they came.

Then it was found that no progress could be made in the summer months because of the fawning season and the impossibility of swimming swollen rivers or traversing territory in which the undergrowth was thick. It was a case of discontinuing the trek from March to November of each year.

Finally after many vicissitudes, with the herd reduced from 3000 to about 2500, including fawns, the deer reached Shingle Point, west of the Mackenzie River delta, in the spring of last year. They summered there and early this January a dash was begun to cover the seventy miles to the grazing grounds, which comprise about 6500 square miles.

It was planned to carry on the drive day and night, but more trouble was encountered. Owing to the blizzards that prevailed this winter, large stretches of ice had been blown clear of snow. Because the deer could not travel on glare ice it was necessary to make frequent and long detours.

To add to the troubles of the herders, the reindeer stampeded back along the trail to Shingle Point. Finally they were rounded up there by the herders, but the season was too far advanced to resume the trip.

Along about December 1 a fresh start will be made on the last lap of the journey, and barring new obstacles the reindeer colony, mothers, fathers and children, should eat Christmas dinner at their new home.

NEW ORLEANS EXCURSION BOAT COMING MAY 3

From the New Orleans office of the Streckfus Steamers, Inc., comes the good news that the big New Orleans Excursion Steamer "Capitol" is coming to Cape Girardeau for one excursion on the night of May 3rd.

The Cape Girardeau Knights of Columbus will sponsor the trip, and the committee in charge of arrangements is planning a big affair.

The Steamer "Capitol" is the largest sternwheel passenger steamer on the Mississippi, and after a very successful winter season at New Orleans, the big sternwheeler is starting the annual cruise up to St. Paul at the head of navigation.

Captain Roy Streckfus will be in command when the big ship lands at Cape Girardeau, and the genial Captain has a large acquaintance along the river, especially at Cape Girardeau.

The "Capitol" has been redecorated and several changes have been made for the comfort and convenience of the passengers. The most noticeable change is the enlarging of the lounge at the forward end of the dance floor.

The "Capitol" will stop at Cape Girardeau for only one trip and that will be on the night of Thursday, May 3rd.

KNOW YOUR NAVY'S HISTORY

In 1812 when our young country declared war on Great Britain, the latter's navy stood at a height never before reached by that of any other nation. The London

Times of that year stated that England "had from Halifax to the West Indies seven times the armament of the whole American Navy".

Two years after declaration of war in 1812, following the abdication of Napoleon, Britain was free to use her entire navy against the United States, a powerful aggregation of 210 ships of the line, 296 frigates, and a large number of corvettes.

In spite of the heavy odds against them in 1812, the U. S. Navy at once set forth on a strenuous campaign against British shipping.

On August 31, 1812, the U. S. Frigate President put into Boston with seven British prizes, and merchantmen.

A most remarkable event of the War of 1812 was the three-day chase of the "Constitution", commanded by Isaac Hull by a powerful British Squadron. Through the exceedingly skillful seamanship of Captain Hull "Old Ironsides" made good her escape.

A defeat and capture of the "Guerriere" by the Constitution was an excellent achievement by Captain Isaac Hull which probably saved him from considerable embarrassment, for he had taken his ship to sea without authority or orders.

In her fight with the Constitution the Guerriere was so badly injured that she could not be brought into port. She was therefore set on fire and destroyed.

When war against England was declared in 1812 the New England States opposed this action and their discontented citizens threatened secession.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY TO AWAIT U. S. ORDERS FOR NRA CODE PROSECUTION

Harry C. Blanton, U. S. District Attorney, here from St. Louis for Federal Court, said today he will be governed by instructions he expects soon from Washington, D. C. to act on complaints of violation of NRA codes. He said he has not been advised of the Department of Justice action instructing U. S. attorneys to act on such complaints, except through news dispatches. Instructions, he said, likely will be at his office in St. Louis when he returns there.

Heretofore the district attorneys have been required to submit to the department requests for NRA suits. Mr. Blanton said he has had no complaints filed with him since he took office recently.

It was said at the postoffice today that complaint blanks, concerning approved codes of fair competition, are available at the office. Some of them have been issued, it was said.—Cape Mis-sourian.

1934 TAG RECEIPTS LARGER

A total of 150,000 more State automobile licenses were sold during the first two months of this year than in a corresponding period in 1933, according to figures of the registration department in Jefferson City. Receipts increased $869,031.

Collections during January and February of this year totaled $5,469,921, as compared to $4,600,889 in the same two months of 1933. It is generally thought that the reduction in automobile tags and improving business conditions are responsible for this decided increase.

LIVING COSTS INCREASE

An increase of three-tenths of one per cent in March in the cost of living for wage earners over that during February is shown by figures compiled by the National Industrial Conference Board in Washington.

Results are made by comparing prices on five representative items. These four increased: Food, three-tenths of one per cent; housing, five-tenths of one per cent; clothing, three-tenths of one per cent; sundries, one-tenth of one per cent. Fuel and light prices remained unchanged.

Living costs in March of this year were nine and three-tenths per cent higher than they were in March, 1933, but twenty and nine-tenths lower than in March, 1929.

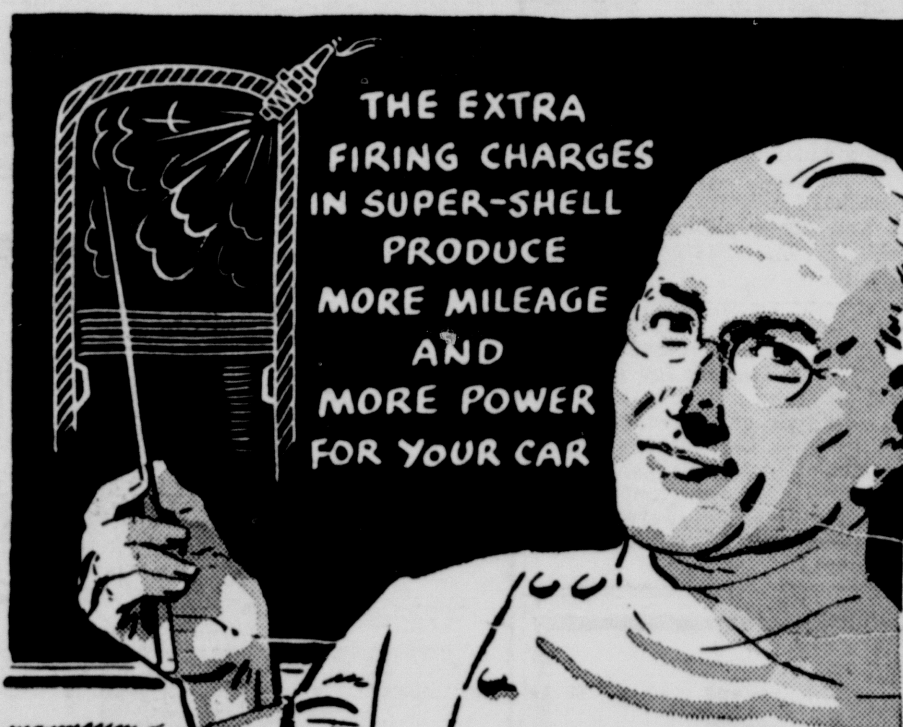

A New "Super-Charged" Gasoline That Gives up to 6900 More Firing Charges Per Gallon

• Shell Refineries Develop a New Way to "Re-Make" the Chemical Structure of Gasoline . . . Resulting in More Mileage, Added Power and Quicker Starting

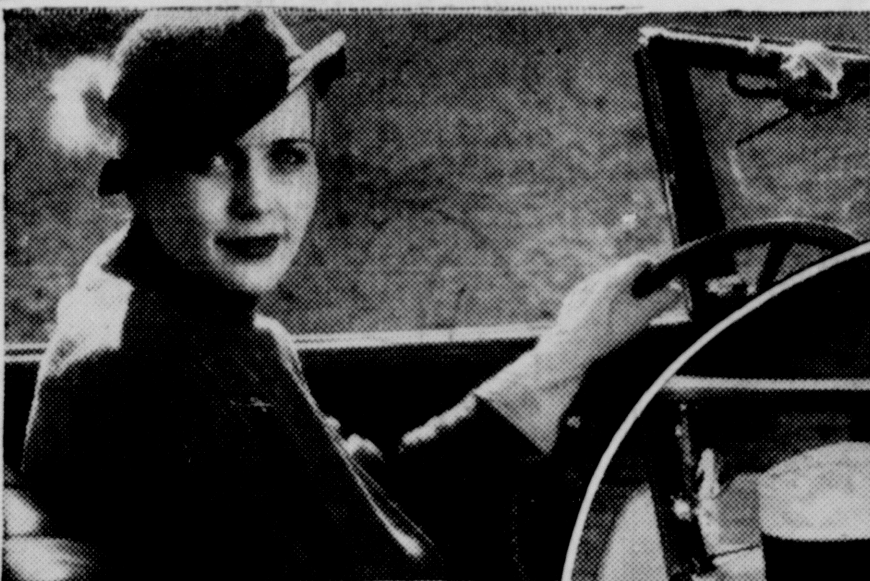

STOP measuring gasoline by the gallon! It's what you get in your gallon that really counts!

In the new improved Super Shell you get up to 6900 extra firing charges in every gallon. To give you these extra firing charges, Shell developed a costly new refining process. This new Shell process actually "re-makes" the entire chemical structure of gasoline. Even a single ounce contains as much as 54 extra firing charges!

Firing charges in your engine drive your car forward. That's why these 6900 extra firing charges in Super Shell give you more power, quicker pick-up, and extra mileage.

MORE ENERGY IS NOW CONCENTRATED in every gallon of the new Super Shell. As many as 6900 extra firing charges in every gallon. Think what that means to you in greater power and mileage. You'll never use any other gasoline again once you've tried Super Shell.

"I GET BETWEEN 1 AND 2 MORE MILES to the gallon from super-charged gasoline, and it makes my car wonderfully responsive," reports still another delighted Super Shell user.

—Kathryn Trombley, St. Louis, Mo.

AUTOMOTIVE ENGINEER IS AMAZED! Mr. Allen Taylor (at left) tried super-charged gasoline and tells Shell technical expert, Mr. Robert I. Lewis, "This new Super Shell has the power we engineers have been looking for in gasoline these last few years."

The latest addition to merchant fleets is made by Palestine. The first navigation company constituted entirely with Hebrew capital and personnel is that formed at Tel Aviv, a small town which is developing rapidly in the vicinity of Jaffa. This company, called the Houpia Company, has placed in service her first vessel, the Emanuel, flying the flag of Palestine. This flag has excited much curiosity at the various ports visited. Several other vessels are to be bought, and as the trade of Palestine is rapidly increasing, a rapid development is expected.

FAITH

Even as "honesty is the best policy" so faith is the true incentive to thought and action. Having been limited, disregarded, and then relegated to an abstruse religious sentiment, faith is suffering as the one element of human character that is most needed.

A theology that adopts mind as a king-cure-all introduces the cold and inanimate letter, which depresses and mystifies, and usurps the place of the faith that inspires. God's faith in you as His son or daughter meets your faith in the immaculate conception of life, love, romance and successful adventure.

The old adage that "self-preservation is the first law of nature" was never true. Reproduction is the first law of nature, and faith is the most prolific of all the attributes of the spirit. Without faith there can be no imagination, without imagination there can be no vision, and without vision there can be no anticipation and successful realization.

Faith is a quality of substantial manhood, the essence of noble womanhood, an attribute of the creative principle, the strength of the heart, the primary organ of character, the sustaining fiber of moral courage, the cement of society and the foundation of civilization.

There is unemployment because obstinate elements are passing away before the maturing faith of the ages. Automobiles, radios, telephones, electricity and even many improved fruits and vegetables, have come into daily use since millions of the thinking population were born. Modern newspapers and magazines with fact finding facilities and fixed knowledge are too new to be fully appreciated and utilized for their highest good as they will be.

They are not physical inventions but external expressions of an internal faith, to be appreciated as fruits of Jesus' saying: "I came that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." All could to advantage devote a few moments each day to cultivating faith. This would reveal the fact that the spiritual law which sustains the universe justifies one's faith in himself as an indispensable unit of the whole.

The object of this advertisement is to announce, with deep reverence and humble gratitude, that Christ is now fulfilling His promise in which faith, love and law are united and revealed. The underlying principle of the practical utility of faith are set forth in my TREATISE ON SPIRITUAL LAW, postpaid on receipt of $1. Many who have read it volunteer the endorsement that it is of the highest import to present and future generations. Every dollar received in response hereto will be used to publish and extend a knowledge of the spiritual law.

for their grade and high schools for next year. Several of them were chosen for the seventh or eighth time.

E. E. Crader, who has been associated with the Diehlstadt schools for nine years, was named superintendent for the seventh time. For seven years Crader has also served as coach of the girls' basketball teams.

James F. Miller, director of boys' basketball, was re-elected high school principal for his fourth term. Other high school teachers chosen are Mary Jane Barnett, Marian McKay, and Gunnie Patterson.

For the eighth time Elsie Thomas was named principal of the grade school. Claude Kirkpatrick, Thelma Steel, Bertram Bradford and Eileen McCord were elected as grade school teachers for next year.

LIVE POWER OF ANIMALS SHOWN IN AD SERIES

Standard Oil Company is making "live power" the theme of its spring and summer advertising campaign in newspapers throughout its territory.

Illustrations of wild animals in action portray the live power animals hold in reserve, above their normal requirements, to draw on in times of need. Parallel illustrations show how reserve "live power" in gasoline help the motorist. The advertising message relates how the company's laboratories have achieved this additional "live power" by turning heavy molecules which formerly gave little power into lighter molecules which become fact-acting energy units.

Sable antelope, impala, koodoo antelope, and Rocky Mountain goats are a few of the animals used in these parallels. To insure authentic portrayals, assistance was secured from the Field Museum of Natural History. Walter A. Weber, artist formerly with the museum, executed many of the drawings, with Paul Branson, renowned for his animal illustrations in the Saturday Evening Post, doing others.

Radio announcements throughout the middle west are being used to call attention to the ads, and bill board messages are tied in with the advertising focused in the newspapers.

Exploring Little America!

LITTLE AMERICA, ANTARCTICA.
March 6: (via Mackay Radio)
Of course, we are all explorers on this Expedition. But I've done some personal exploring recently that gave me a big kick. I have explored Little America! Perhaps my bump of inquisitiveness is bigger than that of the other fellows because I am not yet over the thrill of studying the details of this tiny village and a lot of huts under the snow and ice for four years, which was hastily abandoned in the rush to get aboard the home-going steamer on February 19, 1930.

Admiral Byrd's previous Expedition cleared out of here in less than a day and everywhere there is evidence of their hasty departure. In the huts and mess hall we found articles of clothing thrown about. Many of the things in the William Bowlin men's lockers had been emptied out. The little shelves all over the place still held razors and various other toilet articles. In one hut I found a half finished letter on a desk. Most miraculous of all, to me, was the finding of the old food cache with a great supply of food stuffs, cooking utensils, sugar, salt, pepper and a thousand other things, all in perfect condition so that they can be added to our present supplies.

In Little America we have more than a mile of tunnels buried deep under snow and ice. In planning this strange village, Admiral Byrd placed the buildings 200 yards apart for two good reasons. For many days at a time during the terrible Antarctic winter, it is impossible for anybody to get out doors at all. Under such circumstances, without exercise, the muscles get flabby and the mind becomes dull and quarrelsome. Therefore in adopting these long tunnels Admiral Byrd was providing his men with vital fire protection and with much needed exercise. It has worked out perfectly. Up to now, however, on this Expedition, exercise has been our middle name. We shall be working our heads off for a number of weeks yet.

We found some of the tunnels had caved in. We are gradually excavating these, repairing them and salvaging the material we find in them. It took us four days to locate the old gasoline and oil tunnel which, lined with drums of gasoline and cans of oil, leads to the main supply of these materials. We found it finally with all its supplies and pumps in good condition and 38 big orange colored drums of gasoline, lubricating oil and kerosene.

You know, not only our fuel and oil containers are painted this peculiar reddish-orange color, but almost everything else we have, including our buildings, our tents, our trail flags and everything else. There is a scientific reason for this. In this South Polar region, the visibility is most deceiving. A small pile of snow looks like a mountain and depressions and mounds are not seen until you stumble over them. With the entire panorama one monotonous white scene, however, a brilliant color is visible a long way off. The finest signal experts in the country were consulted by the company which supplied the gasoline and oil for this and Admiral Byrd's previous expedition. Through a long series of tests, they found that a slightly red orange is the most visible color at a distance. In order to break this color into sharp relief special stencils were prepared which read "Byrd Antarctic Expedition."

When we first arrived here a few weeks ago we found the telephone system and the electric lights still working through the energy still remaining in the storage batteries, even after a four year rest. This was used up quickly however, and since then we have expended 500 gallons of gasoline and kerosene in our pressure lanterns, torches and other lighting paraphernalia because our electric generator plant is not yet operating.

I'll never forget my first visit to the mess shack and bunk house. On the table was a half-finished meal with a big roast beef frozen solid, with a fork sticking in it. The cook said it was still good to eat. Maybe so, but I hope he doesn't try to prove it on me. From the old food cache he dragged out some whale's meat, bacon and seal meat and cooked up a stew which George Norville and some of the other fellows swore on their word of honor was delicious. I was sorry I could not agree with them. Over almost every bunk was a 1929 calendar with all the days crossed out. I was with Finn Ronne, when he found the bunk of his father, Martin Ronne, who came here with Amundsen in 1911 and was with Byrd in 1929, when he was 68 years old. He died in 1933. Over the bunk the old Norwegian had printed in pencil the name of his son, Finn Ronne, who is now occupying it.

Have you joined the club yet and received your membership card and working map of the South Polar regions? If not, send a self-addressed stamped envelope (plainly addressed) to C. A. Lee Praises Sikeston Schools and Faculty Members of the school board have received a letter from Charles A. Lee, State Superintendent of Schools, relative to high school approval and inspection of the system an inspection made here recently by R. A. Harper.

Excerpts from the letter follow: "The High School Supervisor, accompanied by your County Superintendent, had the pleasure of visiting your school recently and a complimentary report has been received in this office. Your school is being retained on the first class list with 31 1/2 units.

"As a whole your faculty is exceptionally well qualified. The school is well organized and administered by your efficient Superintendent."

"We are glad to note that advantage has been taken to secure considerable C. W. A. labor to make needed improvements. The addition to the colored school has been needed for some time."

"You are to be commended further for co-operating with the State and Federal authorities in making it possible to offer some valuable commercial work to adults. Without the use of your building and equipment this would have been impossible."

It is generally conceded that the Sikeston schools are in better condition now than they have been for numerous years. CWA work done, requiring a total expense of approximately $2000, cost people of the district less than $800 which Intelligence is what you get from home. Common sense you must develop yourself. Learning is what you obtain in school. Knowledge is what the world hands you. Judgment comes only with the years. Experience is a bitter medicine administered by life itself, and must be taken with a bit of conscience. Wisdom is a phantom often chased but seldom overtaken. Success or failure are a matter of opinion. Reputation is the golden scale. Contentment the final objective.

Hollywood Approves New Streamline Designs

Model automobile tested by the U. S. Bureau of Standards, which proved to have much less air and wind resistance than models of the cars currently produced. Notice elimination of fenders, the sinking of wheels in the body, (U. S. Bureau of Standards.)

People who know, including alike the scientists, the designers, and the world of smart fashion, are all predicting the near approach of streamlining in automobiles.

Streamlining has been used in airplanes for several years: the present top speeds of the trans-continental transports—and also the low fares—have only been made possible by 100 per cent streamlining which reduced wind resistance, hence cut power consumption, increased speed and riding comfort. The railroads are now seizing on this new science, and several lines promise stream-lined trains to travel 100 miles an hour.

Automobiles have joined the procession. New cars will soon be seen with blunt noses, sloping tonneaus, wheels buried in the body. Long noses will soon be only a sign of the old fashioned wind-fighters, which labored to push the air as a mole does the earth.

Lavalle, Richard Hunter, William Hunter, Louis Hunter and F. E. Watson, were still living in New Madrid in 1893.

Col. John H. Waker, one of the most prominent men of the country, a man of enormous physical and mental ability, settled at Little Prairie, which was then an Indian trading post. There he farmed and raised stock, accumulating a great deal of property before his death. During that time, too, he served in the legislature from the district now occupied by New Madrid and Pemiscot Counties.

Col. Walker, who was about 17 years old at the time of the New Madrid earthquake, was on a hunting expedition across the Mississippi river on "Reel Foot Bayou" in Tennessee with a Canadian named Baptiste Thibault. When the second shock appeared, Walker, "unusual to his habits, fell on his knees, amidst the rocking of the immense forest trees, crashing and breaking of their branches, and the earth around him trembling, sinking and spouting up volumes of water, and was devoutly offering prayers for his salvation." When Thibault observed him, he cried out, "Monsieur Walker, what for you pray now, now you die you pray, what for you not pray dis long time ago. Get up and take care of your limbs." Whether from prayer or advice, Walker was unharmed by the quakes.

When he died his property was inherited by his only child, Mary, who had married the Rev. George W. Burky of St. Louis. Numerous of his nephews and nieces, among them Thomas H. Dawson and Mrs. W. W. Waters, lived in New Madrid County.

MAJESTICS TO BE MADE AND SOLD AS BEFORE

It has been erroneously thought by some people that when the assets of the Grigsby-Grunow Company were sold yesterday, the Majestic radios and refrigerators which it manufactures will no longer be made and distributed.

The property, consisting of real estate and buildings, accounts and notes receivable, good will, patents, trade names, trade marks, copyrights and design applications, machinery and equipment, radios, and a large inventory of raw materials and completed merchandise, will now be managed by other officials; and the big concern, the operation of which has involved more than a million dollars, will continue as have other businesses, such as railroads, after they have gone into the hands of receivers.

Girl Marvel!

Born in Chicago and reared in rural communities, Athleta, the aerial star of the Russell Bros. three-ring circus which will be here April 24, decided she could fling herself in the air and turn a half somersault and catch by the heel of one foot on a swinging trapeze bar. Of course, for many weeks she spent more time in a net into which she constantly fell than in the air. She was not frightened, however, because when younger she had swung on tree branches high above the ground and on loose ropes and vines. She was determined, too, and now she rarely fails to perform this feat, which is the climax to her aerial act.

No member of Athleta's family has ever been connected with a circus, and the girl, receiving, in addition to a good education, music and voice training, was discouraged from entering the profession of which she is now a member. She likes it, she says, because it allows her to remain outdoors a great deal. There she can swim or pursue her hobby of tinting photographs.

In an interview she was asked if she were not afraid while she performed her feats. The prize, her dress length in cloth, was sent to Shainberg's, where Mrs. Sutterfield first secured a sample of the fabrics.

The following letter was sent Mrs. Sutterfield by David R. Calhoun, Jr., vice-president of Ely & Walker:

"I am pleased to notify you that the letter you submitted for the Gilbrae Contest is one of those that has been selected as a winner.

"We are mailing your dress length to Louis Shainberg, the man in charge of the Gilbrae department at Shainberg's. If you will present this letter to Mr. Shainberg, as an identification, he will turn over to you the dress length you have won.

"We are pleased that you entered this contest and that you were among the winners. We trust the dress length will be satisfactory and that you will have a kind word for Gilbrae Fabrics."

FRENCH SETTLER UNABLE TO SPEAK ENGLISH WELL

Etienia Bogliolo, a merchant and trader, is probably best remembered as one of New Madrid's first settlers because an amusing incident in which he was the principal actor was recorded and so preserved.

Bogliolo, who obtained by purchase and grants a great deal of valuable land in Missouri and Arkansas, died in poverty at the home of a friend in St. Louis after being swindled of his possessions by land pirates who filled the country in its early days.

He was one of the many Frenchmen who never learned to speak the English language well. He was a very stout, energetic, and social man when he was young, and was always ready to revenge an insult. On one occasion he got into a fight with a man named Winchester, who was physically powerful. Bogliolo, when he saw that he was being worsted, was unable to remember the word so often used by defeated combatants and cried out "Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!" To his surprise, the bystanders did not separate him from his opponent. Consequently, he fought so much harder that Winchester yelled, "nough, nough." "Ah sacre tennere," said Bogliolo, "dat is de good word I bin try to say dis long time." However, he was declared the winner. When Peter Antroim La Forge died, he left many descendants in New Madrid. His son, Alexander, married Miss Harriet Lognon, the eldest daughter of Charles and Charlotte Lognon, and the only sister of Mrs. Godfrey LeSieur. In 1893, Alexander's son, A. C. La Forge, still lived in New Madrid. Will Dawson, Robert A. Dawson, Dr. George W. Dawson, Weston Dawson, and Dr. Weldon O'Bannon were all grandsons of Alexander La Forge.

Dr. Richard J. Waters was a wealthy man, possessor of valuable property in land, which was inherited by his son, Richard J. Waters, who for numerous years was a merchant at New Madrid. This son died in about 1856, leaving a large estate, most of which was divided between his two sons, Louis A. Waters and Dr. W. W. Waters. In 1893, his grandsons, Samuel A. Waters, William W. Waters, John M. Waters and Richard J. Waters, were still living in New Madrid County.

Robert G. Watson went to New Madrid at approximately the time of the Louisiana purchase in 1803. Called the father of his country by people who knew him well, Mr. Watson was a charitable and energetic man and during the course of his life amassed a large fortune. In a regrettable difficulty he was shot and killed on his farm two miles below Pt. Pleasant by Presley Phillips and Phillips' son, Sullivan. After the case was in the New Madrid and Madison County courts for many years, Phillips was finally acquitted.

Watson's four sons were Robert, Richard, H. Clay and Louis. His first daughter married General Col. John H. Walker, one of the Henry Clay; the others married Dr. Edmond Lavalle, Thomas L. Fontaine of St. Louis, W. W. Hunter, a prominent merchant of New Madrid and a native of Washington County, Missouri, and Thomas A. Dow, also a merchant. Many of his grandsons, namely, Dr. Charles Watson, Thomas L. Fontaine, Robert A. Lavalle, Edmond

FOREIGN NAVAL NOTES

France—Launching of the "mosquito boat B-10" by France recalls a prediction last October by Hubert Scott-Paine, designer of Miss England, that the future's navies would consist largely of miniature battleships traveling at a mile-a-minute.

Chief argument in favor of the B-10 is its alleged invulnerability. Briefly described, the craft is a speed boat destined to develop between 60 and 70 land miles an hour and armed with 2 torpedo tubes.

Sixty feet long, 15 abeam, propelled by 2 internal-combustion engines developing 1000 HP, each, the B-10 will be able to dart over the surface of the sea without fear of air bombs, shells from forts or battleships, and submarine attacks.

England—A new war terror has been invented by British naval experts, according to the Daily Herald. It consists of a motor boat without a crew and controlled by radio, resembling a giant torpedo. It has a speed of 45 land miles and is claimed to be capable of destroying the most powerful warship.

The craft is designed to circle around ships, dropping depth charges and returning safely, on account of its speed warship's guns being of no effect. Experiments began in 1932 and have had the most successful results, it is claimed.

Japan—Since the advent of the large, ocean-going, high-speed destroyer the construction of torpedo boats has ceased in all the leading navies. It is now being revived in Japan under circumstances which are very significant. The treaty limits for the size of destroyers are 1500 tons, but not more than 16 per cent may be up to 1850 tons as leaders. Any naval surface combatant vessels of 600 tons or less are, however, exempt from limitations, and the new torpedo boats Japan is building are below this figure. They are 527 tons.

Therefore Japan may build as many of them as she chooses regardless of the London treaty, as they are beyond its scope altogether.

Trim Figure

HOW would you like to have to keep your weight down to one hundred and eighty pounds? Fruit, either canned or fresh, according to American Airways' stewardesses is an ideal breakfast for accomplishing this object.

For two reasons, these modern women are recognized authorities on the subjects of diet and weight control. First: because of the fact that their duties are aloft, on giant fifteen-passenger planes on the air lines' New York Buffalo-Detroit-Chicago and Southern Transcontinental routes, and they are required to maintain their weight at or under this prescribed maximum of one hundred and eighty pounds. Secondly: because all of them are registered nurses, and acquired dietetic knowledge in the course of their training.

Makes Dieting Easy

The stewardess shown above drives on a breakfast diet solely of fruit. She says it permits her to indulge as she pleases at lunch and dinner, without fear of gaining weight. For the morning meal she particularly recommends pineapple, grapefruit, peaches, prunes, figs or tomato juice. In her opinion, canned fruit is equal in nutritive value to fresh.

The duties of an air line stewardess are to answer passengers' questions, aid them in securing maximum pleasure from the flight, and to serve delicious full course meals aloft. American Airways' menus, arranged by competent dietitians, include tomato juice, orange juice or steaming bouillon; chicken, olive-nut cheese or egg salad; baked ham, roast beef, tongue, veal or turkey sandwiches; fruit salad, including candied and fresh varieties; olives and pickles; wafers and cake; coffee, and mints.

Monthly Pains Relieved

Women who take CARDUI have found that severe monthly pains have been relieved and that by continued use of it for a reasonable length of time their strength has been renewed and their general health improved.

"I am glad to speak a few words for Cardui, the medicine I have taken for a weak, run-down condition, for bad pains in my side and back and for irregular periods," writes Mrs. Roy Chandler, of Cusseta, Ala. "Cardui straightened me out and I felt 100 per cent better. It certainly helped me."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Young folks sometimes get hot and bothered and get married on the spur of the moment, whatever that is, then cool down, become calm and collected and get a divorce for some reason or other. To start with if they could be cool and calm instead of hot and bothered there would be no divorce to follow.

Did you ever stop a small boy or small girl, shake hands with them and have something pleasant to say and at the same time slip a nickel in the palm of the little hand? If not you have missed a thrill for yourself and a thrill for the child. When the nickel hits the palm, the little hand closes on it right now, up turns the eyes with a sparkle that is worth the price.

John Dillinger, much wanted man, seems to be in every section of the United States at about the same time. He hasn't called at The Standard office in his rounds, but if he does, we'll try and make it pleasant for him. A rocking chair, a tank of ice water and our art gallery is ready for him at any time.

From the Cape Missourian we learn the dog problem is growing in that city. From the many pup factories running loose in Sikeston it may prove a problem and a menace here in the dog days to come.

After looking at the new styles in bathing suits, the Thayer News Rambler concludes that the nature of the trend is such that it won't be long until the girls do their bathing in a coat of tan, a development which should prove of interest to a fellow down Sikeston way. —K. C. Democrat.

The Standard editor considered it quite an honor to have been invited to make a talk to the congregation of the colored Methodist Church Sunday forenoon. "Self Respect" was the subject.

When State patrolmen visit Caruthersville in the future, in the line of duty, they should go in pairs in order to protect one another. The treatment of Patrolman Dace in that city a few days ago by police officers was little short of cowardly. They jerked his shoulder out of place when they pulled him off a much larger man when he was struck while in the line of duty. Dace should have shot the man when he turned unexpectedly and struck him.

Senator Roscoe Patterson, Republican from Missouri, was never heard from during the Hoover Administration, now bobs up with quite a bit of criticism for the Roosevelt policies. He now says the tariff bill is very dangerous, and it may be so, but something has got to be done so let's tinker with the tariff.

We're mad at Sally Rand, even if she is a Kansas City gal. Colonel Charley Blanton of The Sikeston Standard took time off to see "Bolero", in which she is featured, with every expectation of a big evening. But he left the theatre a disillusioned and disappointed citizen. Sally, it appears, "cavorted around too fast and used the fans at the wrong time", and poor Charley quit with a stiff neck, a sore back and a sprained dorsal fin. He isn't exactly off fan dancers, but he does think Sally done him wrong. That's what we think. —K. C. Democrat.

A letter from Miss Carrie Tippey, a teacher in a Baptist orphanage at Franklin, Tenn., enclosed her subscription for another year to The Standard, for which we thank her. She has in her charge 41 boys from 8 to 12 years of age and states she enjoys her work.

DACE IS ASSAULTED IN CARUTHERSVILLE

Trooper Melvin Dace, of the State Highway Patrol office here, was assaulted Thursday by L. J. Hazel of Caruthersville, when he warned Hazel to buy a Missouri license for his automobile, which at the time had a Georgia tag.

Dace went to see Hazel after he had received a letter of complaint stating that although he had lived in Missouri for some time, Hazel carried a Georgia tag on his new Studebaker car. When Dace questioned the merchant about this infraction of law, Hazel cursed and taunted him. Then Dace invited him to the edge of town, but as the two reached the street in front of the store, Hazel, who was ahead, turned around and struck the patrolman.

Dace soon knocked Hazel down and got on him. However, two Caruthersville officers, who had joined a growing crowd, forcibly pulled him from the prostrate figure.

are, badly wrenching his shoulder as they did.

Dace then requested Hazel to go with him before a justice of the peace, and when the man refused, took hold of him to force him. But again the local officers intervened, this time grabbing both of Dace's arms, and Dace was forced to free himself to avoid being struck by Hazel. Wishing to prevent further trouble, Dace agreed that someone else should take Hazel to court.

The shoulder was dislocated, and according to Sgt. R. R. Reed, who had also gone to Caruthersville but was not present at the altercation, numb and useless from the severe twisting which the policemen gave it.

Hazel was arrested, but later released, and charges against him of operating his automobile without a proper license were dismissed when he bought a tag Friday.

Pleads Guilty To Counterfeit Charge

W. M. Disbennett, about 60 years old, was arrested near Caruthersville last week in a charge of possessing molds for making counterfeit money. After he was questioned by Carl Dickson, secret service agent, who was reached by local officers through the help of the State Highway Patrol office, he entered a temporary plea of guilty.

Caruthersville policemen visited Disbennett's shack near the river above the town after they had learned that the man had previously attempted to persuade a boy to pass spurious coins for him. A search of the place revealed a plaster of paris mold for making 50-cent pieces hidden in the bed.

They found no money but the presence of small particles of metal on the dies indicated that the mold had been used recently. A small quantity of babbitt metal was also discovered.

Disbennett was held in the sheriff's office until the arrival from Portageville of Dickson, who obtained a confession from him. Before Houston H. Buckley, United States Commissioner at Hayti, he pled guilty and was retained to appear in the federal court at Cape Girardeau.

Disbennett was living alone in the shack in poverty and told officers he had begun counterfeiting to make a living. Records of the relief bureau showed that he was issued food rations numerous times until the supply was exhausted. It is thought that he may possibly have confessed quickly in order to secure food and living quarters in prison.

Disbennett is said to have served a term in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., on a similar charge and to have gone to his present home after his release last fall. He had been under government surveillance for some time. Two months ago Dickson and Sgt. Reed searched his house but were unable to find anything.

Band Performance Is Well Attended

A large crowd attended the performance Friday night of the Central College band held in the high school auditorium. The program consisted of classical and semi-popular pieces played by the group, as well as several solo numbers.

The band's opening number, Rossini's "William Tell Overture", was followed by an arrangement of the "Song of Love" from Blossom Time. Other selections before the intermission were a sousaphone solo, "Emmett's Lullaby" by Holmes, played by William Hawkins, a reading by Judith Mayes, and Rudolf Friml's "Rose Marie" by the band.

The remainder of the program consisted of the following numbers:

bers Liszt "Second Hungarian Rhapsody", an arrangement of Victor Herbert's most popular pieces, and Herbert's "American Fantasia", all played by members of the band, and Adams' "The Holy City" sung by Dward Moore.

Because the audience was well pleased with the finished performance, the band, which is under the direction of Keith Anderson, and the soloists gave several encores.

The itinerary of the group included the following cities, as well as other smaller towns, where shorter programs were presented: Fayette, Montgomery City, Bonne Terre, Ironton, Sikeston, Caruthersville, Dexter, Poplar Bluff, West Plains and Houston.

Negro Fair Will Be Held Here April 24

A one-day fair, in which all negro children of Scott County schools will participate, will be held here April 24 at the Sunset school.

Girls will display work which they have done in home economics departments and boys, the articles they have made in manual training. A county chorus of approximately 300 voices will sing five school children's numbers and five negro spirituals. Members of the chorus will sing together for the first time when they meet at the fair, since they will all practice only in their own communities.

In the morning, too, girls will enter garments of their own making in a dress contest. At noon they will cook a lunch for all guests at the fair. The afternoon will be devoted to games, such as baseball, track events, and volleyball.

Attending the fair, which is an annual occasion, will be C. A. Kitch, an official of the State Department of Education in charge of negro schools, Miss Virginia Meierhoffer, State Supervisor of Music, and C. E. Burton, State Supervisor of Rural Schools.

Miss L. A. Myers, who came here in 1929 from Nashville, Tenn., to supervise the negro schools of Scott County, is director of the fair.

All persons interested in the accomplishments of the children are invited to attend.

Sales of The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company for the five weeks period ending March 31st were $81,292,409. This compares with $74,979,542 for the same period in 1933 and is an increase of $6,312,867, or 8.42 per cent.

March sales expressed in tons were estimated as 477,825 this year, compared with 495,208 in March, 1933. This is a decrease in quantity of merchandise sold of 17,383 tons or 3.51 per cent.

Average weekly sales in March were $16,258,482, compared with $14,995,908 in 1933, an increase of $1,262,574. Average weekly tonnage sales were 95,565, compared with 99,042 in March, 1933, a decrease of 3477 tons.

Mr. and Mrs. Ranney Applegate and Mary were over from Dexter, Sunday.

DILLINGER'S SPECTER SPEEDILY TRAVERSES SOUTHEAST MISSOURI

Stories of the ubiquitous Mr. Dillinger have been circulating for several weeks. It is obvious that he either possesses seven-league boots or practices leger-demain for he has been reported seen or heard of at the same time in almost every middle western town. Those who have been disappointed that he has failed to bring any publicity to this district may now be happy, for at last a tale of his very near presence has spread about Southeast Missouri.

Friday night, two men, one looking "very much like Dillinger", stopped their V-8 Ford at a service station in Benton to get gas. When the tank was filled they presented the attendant a $100 bill for change. Alarmed at the sight of so much money as well as the presence of two machine guns reining on the front seat between the men, the attendant hurried to his station to call Dr. U. P. Haw, while the supposed fugitives escaped.

Dr. Haw, in turn, notified authorities. Then, because it was thought the car had gone toward Sikeston, the Highway Patrol office here was reached. A search of roads by the troopers revealed nothing.

Not long after it was said that a suspicious looking automobile sped through Hayti before once more and this time completely disappearing into the night.

FRIENDS PAY HOMAGE AT MALONE FUNERAL

More than 100 Masons and an equal number of members of the Eastern Star, as well as friends and acquaintances, including 150 persons who came from Chaffee on a special train, filled the Methodist Church here Sunday afternoon in testimony of their affection and esteem for William Thomas Malone, who died in St. Louis Thursday morning, following a heart attack.

Before the services the Masons gathered at 2 o'clock at Mr. Malone's house to escort to the church his body which had been brought here Friday morning by Harvey S. Johnson and C. E. Brown.

At the church Harry Dover sang Mr. Malone's favorite song, "Sing Me To Sleep", and a quartet composed of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kirk, Mrs. Ed Hollingsworth and Harry Dover, sang "Old Rugged Cross" and "God Be With You Till We Meet Again". Then the Rev. E. H. Orear spoke in part as follows:

"We never knew how many friends he had because the many little acts of kindness by which he charged his acquaintance and friends were too numerous to count" he said. "He had a pleasant personality and was most accommodating in his relations with the public. His kindness was a virtue which was extended to all in every station of life.

"There were no ulterior motives in his friendliness. It was a natural characteristic of his nature. He had in a great degree a human sympathy for the distressed. He was charitable to a fault and often to his own hurt, for he could not say no when someone was in trouble and came to him for assistance. He fed the hungry and no one at all worthy of consideration appealed to him in vain.

"Naturally, a life of helpfulness, charity, kindness and pleasantness will receive a response, and Mr. Malone was much appreciated by the general public whom he served. There is a universal feeling of sadness and deep regret at his untimely death, and his many acts of kindness and his effective endeavors to accommodate are here recounted.

"One man said in my presence, 'The Frisco will have to go a long way to get a man to take his place, for he was one of the most accommodating men I ever knew.' And the chief clerk at St. Louis is credited with saying he was one of the most loyal employees the Frisco had.

"He was industrious. He never took a full vacation in his life. When he was off for a few days, which was very rare, after about two days' absence, he became restless to get back to his work. He was a good listener and was not talkative unless someone started to argue against his favorite baseball team or player. Then he would earnestly defend them. He was an ardent lover of our national game of baseball and had his favorites both of teams and players and could intelligently talk about them.

"In the home he was a devoted husband and a loving father, considerate always and patient. His family were devoted to him. His son-in-law called him his pal and said he had been a father to him. His happy disposition was a sunshine in the home and he had a happy family.

"The last several years, Brother Malone was in poor health and for the past three years under a physician's care. He never complained, and said so little about his illness that the majority of his friends never knew he was sick.

"He was not unkindful of the seriousness of his condition and told the hospital, 'I am going to have a hard time getting through this attack.' He met it bravely, and made a fight for his life, but lost it as soon or later will we all. Our brother met the call of death when he had met the calls for life. When the calls for duty came in the course of his work, calling for extra effort and long hours, he answered these calls with the best he had and met them uncomplainingly, and so he answered the last great order, conscious to the last, with no grumbling or complaints. He took the order and signed the book."

Following the services, Mr. Malone's body was taken to Memorial Park Cemetery, where Dr. G. A. Sample of Chaffee, district deputy grand master of the fiftieth district, acting as worshipful master, read the Masonic burial ceremony.

Mr. Malone, who was 54 years old at the time of his death, was born October 1, 1879, in Owensville, Ind. During the Spanish-American War he served for eighteen months. In 1905, he married Miss Mame Sewell of Jackson and four years later moved here to assume the duties of Frisco agent. He joined the Presbyterian church in Owensville and remained a member there until fifteen years ago, when he and his wife and their daughter, Sarah, affiliated with the Methodist church here.

He is the last of three brothers, who, together with his mother, have died suddenly of heart trouble. One sister, Mrs. E. Paxton, of Omaha, Neb., of a family of seven, is still alive. His wife and daughter also survive him. Welsh service.

GRANDMOTHER'S MEMORIES

Do not fail to attend the program and pageant to be presented by the Choral Club of the Apollo Group Friday evening, April 20th at the high school gym. It is a program which has been planned to be interesting and fascinating to everyone, old and young, musically inclined or not.

The first half of the program will include a number by Miss Ragaine Harmonica Band, several groups of numbers sung by the entire Choral Club, a violin solo by Frederic Claiborne and will close with the beautiful Seraphic Song by Rubenstein, sung by the Club, with violin obligato by Mr. Claiborne.

The last half of the program is introduced by the Lions Club Chorus who with their old-fashioned steps, and little Betty Anderson and Betty Gaston in their tiny dance, help to take back to Grandmother's younger days. This part of the program is called "Grandmother's Memories". It is to be pictured in quaint old costumes and soft music and will depict Grandmother's life from her early childhood to her later years. Come and enjoy Grandmother's evening of reminiscences.

Mary Emma Donnell entertained last Friday evening with a six o'clock luncheon and a bunting party, in celebration of her birth anniversary. The young ladies also attended the band concert at the high school gymnasium. Those present to enjoy the affair were Mary Emma Allen, Mary Emma Waller, Maureen Blanton, Sue Tanner, this city and Mary Applegate of Dexter.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Mocabee went to St. Louis Sunday, where Mrs. Mocabee entered the Barnes Hospital for a major operation. She was operated on Monday morning and a message received here at 4 o'clock that afternoon stated that she was getting along satisfactorily. Friends of Mrs. Mocabee here wish for her a speedy recovery.

Fire Destroys Home On Kathleen Street

A fire of undetermined origin early Saturday morning destroyed most of the five-room house belonging to S. N. Shepherd at 338 Kathleen street and all of the family's furniture and clothes. The loss, only partly covered by insurance, was estimated at $1200.

No one was in the house at the time of the fire, and when neighbors discovered it at 4 o'clock in the morning most of the roof was in flames. After an hour's work, members of the fire department, who arrived as the roof was falling in, were able to stop the blaze, but nothing was saved from the interior.

Ten days ago a tenant moved from the house, and since that time the Shepherds had been living there. By chance they stayed at their cafe on Malone Avenue Friday night and so did not go to the house.

A small fire was laid in a circulating heater in the home, but it is not thought that this could have started the blaze. Two trunks of clothes and all the furniture were completely demolished, as were the roof and interior walls of the house. The front porch and side walls, though seriously damaged, were not wholly burned.

The Shepherds have made no plans for rebuilding or purchasing another home, and for the present will remain at their cafe.

Simpson Oil Co. Will Broadcast Over KMOX

H. G. Simpson, of the Simpson Oil Company, an independent marketer buying from independent refineries, has arranged to use fifteen minutes of radio station KMOX to advertise Southeast Missouri.

The broadcast will be given from 5:15 to 5:30 o'clock three days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, of each week, beginning this Thursday and will immediately precede the Teaberry hour.

This is the first time a Southeast Missouri firm has ever contracted for a broadcast over a St.

Louis station. During the fifteen minutes information will be given about each county as well as about the hotels, resorts, industries, fishing facilities, and playgrounds of this section.

Mr. Simpson was able to arrange for this broadcast through the co-operation of the independent refineries from which he buys products and of the Quaker State Refinery Company.

Any suggestions for the program, which will extend for an indefinite length of time, may be sent to the offices of the Simpson Oil Company in Charleston.

Airplane To Be Here Tuesday-Wednesday

Harold S. Johnson of Chicago will be at the municipal airport here today and tomorrow to perform air maneuvers and to take passengers for flights in his trimotored plane which has room for sixteen persons.

Numerous other men have failed in attempts to stunt fly in big ships, and it is said that Johnson successfully operates the world's largest stunt plane. He does loops, spins, and barrel and snap rolls.

At the Pan-American air races in New Orleans last February, Johnson was announced as the world's best tri-motored pilot. He has participated in numerous air races, and in 1931 he was second to Major Doolittle in a coast-to-coast competition.

He is one of the oldest pilots in the country. He began to train when he was in his early teens and holds one of the first licenses issued. He was among the first pilots of the Continental Airway Company. From that position he became operating manager but later resigned to do speed, acrobatic and commercial flying.

The plane will come to Sikeston from Poplar Bluff and will go north here toward Chicago. Johnson will take passengers for a six-mile ride over the city for 50 cents.

SING FEST HELD SUNDAY

More than 800 people attended a singing convention which was held from 10 to 4 o'clock Sunday at the Miner Baptist church.

The Rev. Lawrence Ray, pastor of the church, welcomed the visitors, and Gordie Evans made an opening prayer. Choirs from churches at Salcedo, Pleasant Valley, Harricane Ridge, Miner Switch, Big Ridge, Rootwad, Little Vine, Boardman, and from Kentucky alternated in singing group numbers and their members solos, quartets and duets.

At noon the people ate basket dinners at tables which had been built at the rear of the church. The next convention will be held at Little Vine in July.

THREE ATTEND PLAY MEET

Betty Donnell, Margaret Fisher and Maxine Sellards attended, with Miss Burden Schreff, the sixth annual Southeast Missouri High School Play Day at Cape Girardeau Saturday.

The program began at 9:15 o'clock in the morning at the Hook Field Stadium and closed at 4 o'clock in the afternoon with a reception at Academic Hall.

The event, sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association of the Cape Girardeau State Teachers' College, is not a competitive one. Acquaintance games, folk dancing and relays were included in the program, which was originally started to foster a better friendship between young women of the district.

Three Are Arrested Held in County Jail

Tom Johnson, 35-year-old farmer convict, who was arrested near Marble Hill Wednesday and charged with the robbery of two Zalma stores and with the attempted robbery of a store in Advance, has been put in the Bollinger county jail. He will plead not guilty to the charges.

The car in which he was driving with a woman companion was said to have contained merchandise stolen in the Zalma store. It bore a license issued to Jess Buckner of Millersville. Buckner, with Roy Perkins, was arrested Thursday evening at a filling station near the Highway 53 bridge over the St. Francis River in the extreme edge of Butler County.

Later, he and Johnson's companion were released. It is tho't that only one person effected the Zalma robbery. Perkins, however, was held and charged with the burglary of a house in Millersville Easter Sunday. He is now in jail at Jackson.

When Perkins stated that Robert Jacob of Millersville had given him a gun which was found on him, Patrolman Percy R. Little of the Highway Patrol office here questioned Jacob. Jacob denied knowledge of the gun, so he was taken Sunday to Bloomfield to confront Perkins. Before the end of the interview he had confessed to stealing the gun. He is also now being held in Jackson.

Lynn Sutton, son of J. Z. Sutton, was arrested at about 6:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon and was charged with reckless driving and with being drunk before Judge Joseph W. Myers. Bond, which was set at $300, was signed by Leon Ansell and Jack Lair.

Sutton was found unconscious in his car parked on the shoulder of Highway 60, three miles east of town. It is said that he had earlier in the afternoon hit another car. The date for the trial has not yet been set.

County and State Crops

Winter wheat in Scott county came to April with a condition of 73 per cent normal compared with 64 per cent April, 1933. The five-year average April condition has been 75 per cent. The yield in 1933 was 6.5 bushels per acre and the 5-year average was 11.6 as computed from farmer reports to the U. S. Division of Crop and Livestock Estimates. The April condition of rye is 83 per cent and pasture 45 per cent against 61 last year. The prevailing rate of farm wages per day with board in Scott County is 75 cents as now reported by our farmers.

Missouri prospect for wheat from a condition of 83 per cent normal indicates 19,396,000 bushels for 1934 harvest against 16,600,000 bushels harvested in 1933 and a yield of 12.5 bushels on the planted acreage of 1,554,000 acres. Abandonment is expected to be less than the average for the last 5 years, but will not be fully known until the first of May. Wheat harvested in 1933 was 1,328,000 acres averaging 12.5 bushels per acre, according to E. A. Logan, Senior Agricultural Statistician of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Spring growth has been slow but the crop appears healthy. The 5-year average production of winter wheat in Missouri has been 19,388,000 bushels on an average harvested acreage of 1,420,000. Winter wheat production now indicated for United States is 491,799,000 bushels against 351,030,000 last year and a 5-year average from 1927-1931 of 632,061,000 bushels. The production in 1932 was 475,709,000 bushels.

Grain stocks on Missouri farms are considerably less than last year at this time. Pastures are of the poorest condition during the past 7 years of record, being 65 per cent normal against 75 per cent last year. Pastures need more moisture.

Rye prospect is for 8.5 bushels per acre on an April condition of 81 per cent compared with 7.5 bushels from 78 per cent condition last year.

Oats seeding has generally been completed in all sections with crop coming up to good stands in the southern counties.

Wages have advanced slightly since January 1. Milk production shows a decline from the rate in April, 1933. Egg production is slightly lower than a year ago and chicks hatched much less. Cash rents for 1934 show an advance over 1933 rates.

So much bunk of one sort or other has come into this office from all kinds of tranches of farm credits and banking institutions handling the different lines of credit to save the farmer his land and the home owner his home, that we wonder if a single individual in Sikeston or vicinity has been benefited by any of these aids and if so, we would like to hear from them and just how they did it, and what else besides their land or home, their personal property, and wife and children, they had to put up for security. Just another mess of hokey.

RAIL NEGOTIATIONS: Joseph B. Eastman, center, Federal Coordinator of Transportation, started his attempt to compromise the deadlock between railroads and the railroad brotherhoods, by conferring with a group of rail chiefs.

JEANIE COOKS TO MUSIC: Jeanie Lang, radio ingenue of the popular Powder Box Revue is crazy about cooking and naturally loves music. An admirer has given her a compact Atwater Kent for her kitchen and the star now invariably cooks to music. Also, she admits being an ardent follower of the crime broad casts of the police.

While the necking was in progress her escort devoted one hand to the wheel and the other to the anatomy of the young woman, and while this set-up was being maintained the car crashed into another automobile. The judge directed a verdict for the defendant charging the young woman with "contributory negligence" in permitting her escort to drive with one arm encircling her waist.—Jackson Cash-Book.

A farmer friend of ours told us last week that he seldom had time to do the things he wished, although he accomplished less, or at least no more, than thirty years ago when speed counted for nothing. In those days he came to town but once a week, he said, and brought sufficient supplies to last him until the next trip. He traveled in a wagon behind a team and was satisfied with the slow gait. Now he comes to town nearly every day and wishes his car was a new model that would make the bumps easier and make more speed. He is constantly in a rush, seems always behind in his work and has little time at home. There was no mystery in why he was always behind although he traveled faster. He knew it and so did we. Everybody who tries to keep up with modern ideas of recreation and pleasure can understand it if they try to. The home, about which families have always been built and trained, is rapidly becoming a memory, and in its place we find a house, good only for meals and a place to spend a few hours of sleep.—Shelbina Democrat.

Before taking leave forever of Dr. Wirt, let us jot down such items as we may on the credit side. Through him, we met Mr. Bulwinkle whom we otherwise might have missed, and that's a name that somehow makes us all feel gay. Thanks, too, to Dr. Wirt, the country has looked on the Jovian brow of James A. Reed—a brow clad in a thundercloud through all the senatorial years, but wreathed in a smile as he cadied along after his client. And then there's McGugin of the Kansas McGugins, waving a red flag, so to speak, in the face of the North Carolina Bulwinkle, which is, we suspect, a pretty valorous venture. Finally, the whole dark conspiracy which, when plucked to the olive, or the cherry, or the pickled onion, was found to be as blandly non-intoxicating as Mrs. Doran's cocktail of prohibition vintage. It was inevitable that somebody, soon or late, would give the whole country a laugh, and the jocular deity that picked "Wirtie" for the stunt chose ex-

Deer Trek a 5-Year Task

plete until next Christmas.

The trek began from the Buckland River Valley, Alaska, at Christmas, 1929, so the trip, when completed, will have consumed five years. When it began the expectation was that less than half this time would be necessary.

The herd was purchased by the Canadian government from the Lomer Brothers Corporation in Alaska, and is to be used to supply food and skins for the 4600 Eskimos in the territories, about half of whom, however, live far from the grazing grounds elected for the new home of the herd.

The dozen herders in charge of the deer have put in more than four exciting years. They have had to fight off wolves, which constantly attack the herd. Sickness and accidents to the deer also have kept them busy, but one of their most trying difficulties has been the strong homing instinct of their charges. The deer have often stampeded and doubled back on their trail in search of the country from which they came.

Then it was found that no progress could be made in the summer months because of the fawning season and the impossibility of swimming swollen rivers or traversing territory in which the undergrowth was thick. It was a case of discontinuing the trek from March to November of each year.

Finally after many vicissitudes, with the herd reduced from 3000 to about 2500, including fawns, the deer reached Shingle Point, in the spring of last year. They summered there and early this January a dash was begun to cover the seventy miles to the grazing grounds, which comprise about 6500 square miles.

It was planned to carry on the drive day and night, but more trouble was encountered. Owing to the blizzards that prevailed this winter, large stretches of ice had been blown clear of snow. Because the deer could not travel on glare ice it was necessary to make frequent and long detours.

To add to the troubles of the herders, the reindeer stampeded back along the trail to Shingle Point. Finally they were rounded up there by the herders, but the season was too far advanced to resume the trip.

Along about December 1 a fresh start will be made on the last lap of the journey, and barring new obstacles the reindeer colony, mothers, fathers and children, should eat Christmas dinner at their new home.

NEW ORLEANS EXCURSION BOAT COMING MAY 3

From the New Orleans office of the Streckfus Steamers, Inc., comes the good news that the big New Orleans Excursion Steamer "Capitol" is coming to Cape Girardeau for one excursion on the night of May 3rd.

The Cape Girardeau Knights of Columbus will sponsor the trip, and the committee in charge of arrangements is planning a big affair.

The Steamer "Capitol" is the largest sternwheel passenger steamer on the Mississippi, and after a very successful winter season at New Orleans, the big sternwheeler is starting the annual cruise up to St. Paul at the head of navigation.

Captain Roy Streckfus will be in command when the big ship lands at Cape Girardeau, and the genial Captain has a large acquaintance along the river, especially at Cape Girardeau.

The "Capitol" has been redecorated and several changes have been made for the comfort and convenience of the passengers. The most noticeable change is the enlarging of the lounge at the forward end of the dance floor.

The "Capitol" will stop at Cape Girardeau for only one trip and that will be on the night of Thursday, May 3rd.

KNOW YOUR NAVY'S HISTORY

In 1812 when our young country declared war on Great Britain, the latter's navy stood at a height never before reached by that of any other nation. The London

Times of that year stated that England "had from Halifax to the West Indies seven times the armament of the whole American Navy".

Two years after declaration of war in 1812, following the abdication of Napoleon, Britain was free to use her entire navy against the United States, a powerful aggregation of 210 ships of the line, 296 frigates, and a large number of corvettes.

In spite of the heavy odds against them in 1812, the U. S. Navy at once set forth on a strenuous campaign against British shipping.

On August 31, 1812, the U. S. Frigate President put into St. Louis with seven British prizes, and merchantmen.

A most remarkable event of the War of 1812 was the three-day chase of the "Constitution", commanded by Isaac Hull by a powerful British Squadron. Through the exceedingly skillful seamanship of Captain Hull "Old Ironsides" made good her escape.

A defeat and capture of the "Guerriere" by the Constitution was an excellent achievement by Captain Isaac Hull which probably saved him from considerable embarrassment, for he had taken his ship to sea without authority or orders.

In her fight with the Constitution the Guerriere was so badly injured that she could not be brought into port. She was therefore set on fire and destroyed.

When war against England was declared in 1812 the New England States opposed this action and their discontented citizens threatened secession.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY TO AWAIT U. S. ORDERS FOR NRA CODE PROSECUTION

Harry C. Blanton, U. S. District Attorney, here from St. Louis for Federal Court, said today he will be governed by instructions he expects soon from Washington, D. C. to act on complaints of violation of NRA codes. He said he has not been advised of the Department of Justice action instructing U. S. attorneys to act on such complaints, except through news dispatches. Instructions, he said, likely will be at his office in St. Louis when he returns there.

Heretofore the district attorneys have been required to submit to the department requests for NRA suits. Mr. Blanton said he has had no complaints filed with him since he took office recently.

It was said at the postoffice today that complaint blanks, concerning approved codes of fair competition, are available at the office. Some of them have been issued, it was said.—Cape Missourian.

Miss Filing Clerk: Sir!

A man looking at some neckties tossed one or two aside rather contemptuously. Lingered after having made his purchases, he noticed that the clerk put those he had so positively rejected into a separate box.

"What becomes of them?" he inquired.

"We sell them to the women who come in here to buy ties for men," was the reply.—Jackson Cash-Book.

1934 TAG RECEIPTS LARGER

A total of 150,000 more State automobile licenses were sold during the first two months of this year than in a corresponding period in 1933, according to figures of the registration department in Jefferson City. Receipts increased $869,031.

Collections during January and February of this year totaled $5,469,921, as compared to $4,600,889 in the same two months of 1933.

It is generally thought that the reduction in automobile tags and improving business conditions are responsible for this decided increase.

LIVING COSTS INCREASE

An increase of three-tenths of one per cent in March in the cost of living for wage earners over that during February is shown by figures compiled by the National Industrial Conference Board in Washington.

Results are made by comparing prices on five representative items. These four increased: Food, three-tenths of one per cent; housing, five-tenths of one per cent; clothing, three-tenths of one per cent; sundries, one-tenth of one per cent. Fuel and light prices remained unchanged.

Living costs in March of this year were nine and three-tenths per cent higher than they were in March, 1933, but twenty and nine-tenths lower than in March, 1929.

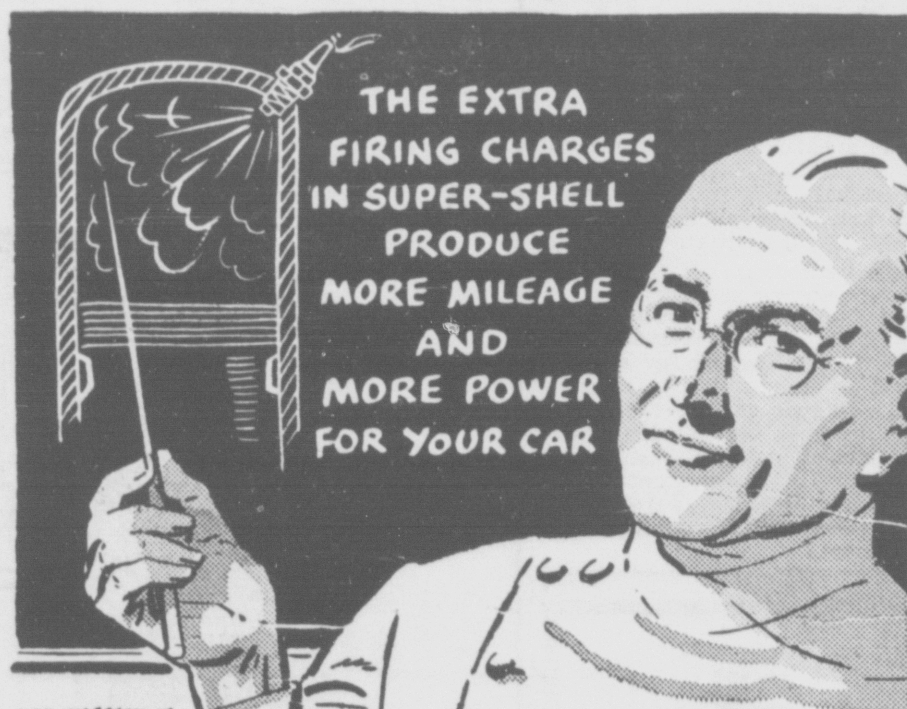

A New "Super-Charged" Gasoline That Gives up to 6900 More Firing Charges Per Gallon

• Shell Refineries Develop a New Way to "Re-Make" the Chemical Structure of Gasoline . . . Resulting in More Mileage, Added Power and Quicker Starting

STOP measuring gasoline by the gallon! It's what you get in your gallon that really counts!

In the new improved Super Shell you get up to 6900 extra firing charges in every gallon. To give you these extra firing charges, Shell developed a costly new refining process. This new Shell process actually "re-makes" the entire chemical structure of gasoline. Even a single ounce contains as much as 54 extra firing charges!

Firing charges in your engine drive your car forward. That's why these 6900 extra firing charges in Super Shell give you more power, quicker pick-up, and extra mileage.

THE EXTRA FIRING CHARGES IN SUPER-SHELL PRODUCE MORE MILEAGE AND MORE POWER FOR YOUR CAR

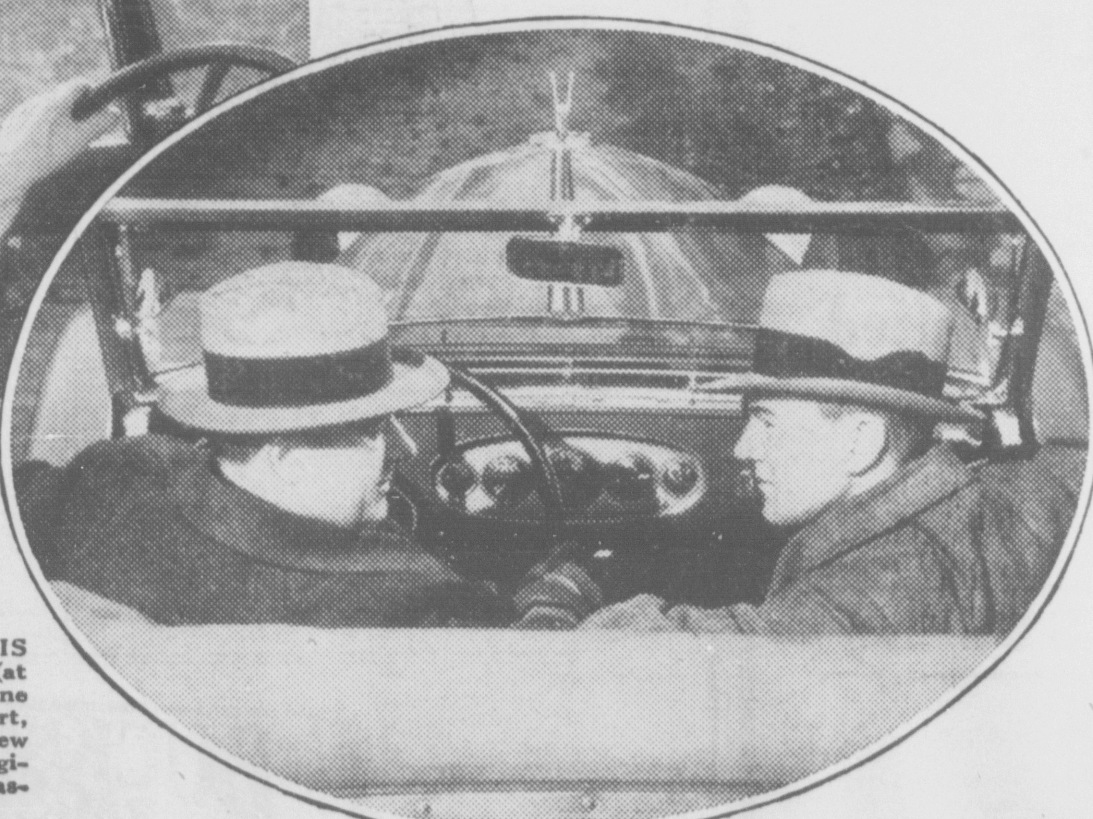

MORE ENERGY IS NOW CONCENTRATED in every gallon of the new Super Shell. As many as 6900 extra firing charges in every gallon. Think what that means to you in greater power and mileage. You'll never use any other gasoline again once you've tried Super Shell.

"I GET BETWEEN 1 AND 2 MORE MILES to the gallon from super-charged gasoline, and it makes my car wonderfully responsive," reports still another delighted Super Shell user.

—Kathryn Trombley, St. Louis, Mo.

AUTOMOTIVE ENGINEER IS AMAZED! Mr. Allen Taylor (at left) tried super-charged gasoline and tells Shell technical expert, Mr. Robert I. Lewis, "This new Super Shell has the power we engineers have been looking for in gasoline these last few years."

The latest addition to merchant fleets is made by Palestine. The first navigation company constituted entirely with Hebrew capital and personnel is that formed at Tel Aviv, a small town which is developing rapidly in the vicinity of Jaffa. This company, called the Houpia Company, has placed in service her first vessel, the Emanuel, flying the flag of Palestine. This flag has excited much curiosity at the various ports visited. Several other vessels are to be bought, and, as the trade of Palestine is rapidly increasing, a rapid development is expected.

If we were to say that the Dexter Statesman printed this story there would be denial, so we won't say it: A cowpuncher ordered a steak at a restaurant. The waiter brought it in—rare—very rare. The puncher looked at it and demanded that it be returned to the kitchen and cooked. "It is cooked," snapped the waiter. "Cooked, hell!" replied the puncher. "I've seen cows hurt worse than that get well!"—K. C. Democrat.

Reports from Paris state French plans for stratosphere planes capable of bombing enemy cities from an altitude of ten miles were obtained by an international espionage ring and sold to an unnamed power. Plans for a new earth inductor compass for stratosphere planes which had proven a vast improvement over those now in use, were also sold. The new compass was reported accurate up to 50,000 feet.

MUCH STATE LAND IS POOR

A total of 7,370,515 acres of Missouri land is unsuitable for crops, according to figures compiled by the soils department of the College of Agriculture of the University of Missouri.

The survey also shows that much of 12,462,715 acres now be used for crops should be retired from use. Further, soils which are definitely suited for cultivation comprise 44,033,769 acres.

Results of this study will be used as a basis for all future allotments of funds and for location of national forests, homestead tracts and other public projects, officials of the State planning board said.

FAITH

Even as "honesty is the best policy" so faith is the true incentive to thought and action. Having been limited, disregarded, and then relegated to an abstruse religious sentiment, faith is suffering as the one element of human character that is most needed.

A theology that adopts mind as a king-cure-all introduces the cold and inanimate letter, which depresses and mystifies, and usurps the place of the faith that inspires. God's faith in you as His son or daughter meets your faith in the immaculate conception of life, love, romance and successful adventure.

The old adage that "self-preservation is the first law of nature" was never true. Reproduction is the first law of nature, and faith is the most prolific of all the attributes of the spirit. Without faith there can be no imagination, without imagination there can be no vision, and without vision there can be no anticipation and successful realization.

Faith is a quality of substantial manhood, the essence of noble womanhood, an attribute of the creative principle, the strength of the heart, the primary organ of character, the sustaining fiber of moral courage, the cement of society and the foundation of civilization.

There is unemployment because obstinate elements are passing away before the maturing faith of the ages. Automobiles, radios, telephones, electricity and even many improved fruits and vegetables, have come into daily use since millions of the thinking population were born. Modern newspapers and magazines with fact finding facilities and fixed knowledge are too new to be fully appreciated and utilized for their highest good as they will be.

They are not physical inventions but external expressions of an internal faith, to be appreciated as fruits of Jesus' saying: "I came that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly". All could to advantage devote a few moments each day to cultivating faith. This would reveal the fact that the spiritual law which sustains the universe justifies one's faith in himself as an indispensable unit of the whole.

The object of this advertisement is to announce, with deep reverence and humble gratitude, that Christ is now fulfilling His promise in which faith, love and law are united and revealed. The underlying principle of the practical utility of faith are set forth in my TREATISE ON SPIRITUAL LAW, postpaid on receipt of $1. Many who have read it volunteer the endorsement that it is of the highest import to present and future generations. Every dollar received in response hereto will be used to publish and extend a knowledge for their grade and high schools for next year. Several of them were chosen for the seventh or eighth time.

E. E. Crader, who has been associated with the Diehlstadt schools for nine years, was named superintendent for the seventh time. For seven years Crader has also served as coach of the girls' basketball teams.

James P. Miller, director of boys' basketball, was re-elected high school principal for his fourth term. Other high school teachers chosen are Mary Jane Barnett, Marian McKay, and Gunnie Patterson.

For the eighth time Elsie Thomas was named principal of the grade school. Claude Kirkpatrick, Thelma Steel, Bertram Bradford and Eileen McCord were elected as grade school teachers for next year.

LIVE POWER OF ANIMALS SHOWN IN AD SERIES

Standard Oil Company is making "live power" the theme of its spring and summer advertising campaign in newspapers throughout its territory.

Illustrations of wild animals in action portray the live power animals hold in reserve, above their normal requirements, to draw on in times of need. Parallel illustrations show how reserve "live power" in gasoline help the motorist. The advertising message relates how the company's laboratories have achieved this additional "live power" by turning heavy molecules which formerly gave little power into lighter molecules which become fact-acting energy units.

Sable antelope, impala, koodoo antelope, and Rocky Mountain goats are a few of the animals used in these parallels. To insure authentic portrayals, assistance was secured from the Field Museum of Natural History. Walter A. Weber, artist formerly with the museum, executed many of the drawings, with Paul Branson, renowned for his animal illustrations in the Saturday Evening Post, doing others.

Radio announcements throughout the middle west are being used to call attention to the ads, and bill board messages are tied in with the advertising focused in the newspapers.

Exploring Little America!

LITTLE AMERICA, ANTARCTICA. March 6: (via Mackay Radio) Of course, we are all explorers on this Expedition. But I've done some personal exploring recently that gave me a big kick. I have explored Little America! Perhaps my bump of inquisitiveness is bigger than that of the other fellows because I am not yet over the thrill of studying the details of this tiny village and a lot of huts under the snow and ice for four years, which was hastily abandoned in the rush to get aboard the home-going steamer on February 19, 1930.

Admiral Byrd's previous Expedition cleared out of here in less than a day and everywhere there is evidence of their hasty departure. In the huts and mess hall we found articles of clothing thrown about. Many of the things in the William Bowlin men's lockers had Relief Pilot been emptied onto the floor. The little shelves all over the place still held razors and various other toilet articles. In one hut I found a half finished letter on a desk. Most miraculous of all, to me, was the finding of the old food cache with a great supply of food stuffs, cooking utensils, sugar, salt, pepper and a thousand other things, all in perfect condition so that they can be added to our present supplies.

In Little America we have more than a mile of tunnels buried deep under snow and ice. In planning this strange village, Admiral Byrd placed the buildings 200 yards apart for two good reasons. For many days at a time during the terrific Antarctic winter, it is impossible for anybody to get outdoors at all. Under such circumstances, without exercise, the muscles get flabby and the mind becomes dull and quarrelsome. Therefore in adopting these long tunnels Admiral Byrd was providing his men with vital fire protection and with much needed exercise. It has worked out perfectly. Up to now, however, on this Expedition, exercise has been our middle name. We shall be working our heads off for a number of weeks yet.

We found some of the tunnels had caved in. We are gradually excavating these, repairing them and salvaging the material we find in them. It took us four days to locate the old gasoline and oil tunnel which, lined with drums of gasoline and cans of oil, leads to the main supply of these materials. We found it finally with all its supplies and pumps in good condition and 28 big orange colored drums of gasoline, lubricating oil and kerosene.

You know, not only our fuel and oil containers are painted this peculiar reddish-orange color, but almost everything else we have, including our buildings, our tents, our trail flags and everything else. There is a scientific reason for this. In this South Polar region, the visibility is most deceiving. A small pile of snow looks like a mountain and depressions and mounds are not seen until you stumble over them. With the entire panorama one monotonous white scene, however, a brilliant color is visible a long way off. The finest signal experts in the country were consulted by the company which supplied the gasoline and oil for this and Admiral Byrd's previous expedition. Through a long series of tests, they found that a slightly red orange is the most visible color at a distance. In order to break this color into sharp relief special stencils were prepared which read "Byrd Antarctic Expedition."

When we first arrived here a few weeks ago we found the telephone system and the electric lights still working through the energy still remaining in the storage batteries, even after a four year rest. This was used up quickly however, and since then we have expended 500 gallons of gasoline and kerosene in our pressure lanterns, torches and other lighting paraphernalia because our electric generator plant is not yet operating.

I'll never forget my first visit to the mess shack and bunk house. On the table was a half-finished meal with a big roast beef frozen solid, with a fork sticking in it. The cook said it was still good to eat. Maybe so. But I hope he doesn't try to prove it on me. From the old food cache he dragged out some whale's meat, bacon and seal meat and cooked up a stew which George Noville and some of the other fellows swore on their word of honor was delicious. I was sorry I could not agree with them. Over almost every bunk was a 1929 calendar with all the days crossed out. I was with Finn Ronne, when he found the bunk of his father, Martin Ronne, who came here with Amundsen in 1911 and was with Byrd in 1929, when he was 68 years old. He died in 1933. Over the bunk the old Norwegian had printed in pencil the name of his son, Finn Ronne, who is now occupying it.

Have you joined the club yet and received your membership card and working map of the South Polar regions? If not, send a self-addressed stamped envelope (plainly addressed) to C. A. Abele, Jr., President, Little America Aviation and Exploration Club, Hotel Lexington, 48th St., and Lexington Avenue, New York, N. Y., and join one of the fastest growing organizations in the world at no cost whatever.

Lee Praises Sikeston Schools and Faculty

Members of the school board have received a letter from Charles A. Lee, State Superintendent of Schools, relative to high school approval and inspection of the system an inspection made here recently by R. A. Harper.

Excerpts from the letter follow: "The High School Supervisor, accompanied by your County Superintendent, had the pleasure of visiting your school recently and a complimentary report has been received in this office. Your school is being retained on the first class list with 31 3/4 units.

"As a whole your faculty is exceptionally well qualified. The school is well organized and administered by your efficient Superintendent.

"We are glad to note that advantage has been taken to secure considerable C. W. A. labor to make needed improvements. The addition to the colored school has been needed for some time.

"You are to be commended further for co-operating with the State and Federal authorities in making it possible to offer some valuable commercial work to adults. Without the use of your building and equipment this would have been impossible."

It is generally conceded that the Sikeston schools are in better condition now than they have been for numerous years. CWA work done, requiring a total expense of approximately $2000, cost people of the district less than $800 which was spent for materials. It included, besides the addition to the Sunset school, painting the negro school and the rear grade building, redecorating the old grade building and the high school gymnasium, repairing the bleachers, and varnishing the windows of all schools.

Courses in vocational education for adults are taught by Frances Magill. Classes in typing, shorthand, business English, and book-keeping were held from 4 o'clock in the afternoon until 9 at night, with an hour off for dinner. The work, which began in the middle of January, will end April 20.

Hollywood Approves New Streamline Designs

(Below) View snapped in Hollywood of one of the new streamline cars which engineers say will soon make all the square-toppers obsolete. Notice particularly the comparative shortness of the nose, when measured with the total length of the tonneau. Long noses will soon cease to be a sign of speed or power. And Hollywood approves the smartness, as who wouldn't? (R.K.O.)

Model automobile tested by the U. S. Bureau of Standards, which proved to have much less air and wind resistance than models of the cars currently produced. Notice elimination of fenders, the sinking of wheels in the body. (U. S. Bureau of Standards.)

People who know, including alike the scientists, the designers, and the world of smart fashion, are all predicting the near approach of streamlining in automobiles.

Streamlining has been used in airplanes for several years: the present top speeds of the trans-continental transports—and also the low fares—have only been made possible by 100 per cent streamlining which reduced wind resistance, hence cut power consumption, increased speed and riding comfort. The railroads are now seizing on this new science, and several lines promise streamline trains to travel 100 miles an hour.

Automobiles have joined the procession. New cars will soon be seen with blunt noses, sloping tonneaus, wheels buried in the body. Long noses will soon be only a sign of the old fashioned wind-fighters, which labored to push the air as a mole does the earth.

FRENCH SETTLER UNABLE TO SPEAK ENGLISH WELL

Etienia Bogliolo, a merchant and trader, is probably best remembered as one of New Madrid's first settlers because an amusing incident in which he was the principal actor was recorded and so preserved. Bogliolo, who obtained by purchase and grants a great deal of valuable land in Missouri and Arkansas, died in poverty at the home of a friend in St. Louis after being swindled of his possessions by land pirates who filled the country in its early days. He was one of the many Frenchmen who never learned to speak the English language well. He was a very stout, energetic, and social man when he was young, and was always ready to revenge an insult. On one occasion he got into a fight with a man named Winchester, who was physically powerful. Bogliolo, when he saw that he was being worsted, was unable to remember the word so often used by defeated combatants and cried out "Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!" To his surprise, the bystanders did not separate him from his opponent. Consequently, he fought so much harder that Winchester yelled, "A nough, nough. 'Ah sacre tennere', said Bogliolo, 'dat is de good word I bin try to say dis long time'. However, he was declared the winner.

When Peter Antioin La Forge died, he left many descendants in New Madrid. His son, Alexander, married Miss Harriet Lognon, the eldest daughter of Charles and Charlotte Lognon, and the only sister of Mrs. Godfrey LeSieur. In 1893, Alexander's son, A. C. La Forge, still lived in New Madrid.

Will Dawson, Robert A. Dawson, Dr. George W. Dawson, Weston Dawson, and Dr. Weldon O'Bannon were all grandsons of Alexander LaForge.

Dr. Richard J. Waters was a wealthy man, possessor of valuable property in land, which was inherited by his son, Richard J. Waters, who for numerous years was a merchant at New Madrid. This son died in about 1856, leaving a large estate, most of which was divided between his two sons, Louis A. Waters and Dr. W. W. Waters. In 1893, his grandsons, Samuel A. Waters, William W. Waters, John M. Waters and Richard J. Waters, were still living in New Madrid County.

Robert G. Watson went to New Madrid at approximately the time of the Louisiana purchase in 1803. Called the father of his country by people who knew him well, Mr. Watson was a charitable and energetic man and during the course of his life amassed a large fortune. In a regrettable difficulty he was shot and killed on his farm two miles below Pt. Pleasant by Presley Phillips and Phillips' son, Sullivan. After the case was in the New Madrid and Madison County courts for many years, Phillips was finally acquitted.

Watson's four sons were Robert, Richard, H. Clay and Louis. His first daughter married General Col. John H. Walker, one of the Henry Clay; the others married Dr. Edmond Lavalle, Thomas L. Fontaine of St. Louis, W. W. Hunter, a prominent merchant of New Madrid and a native of Washington County, Missouri, and Thomas A. Dow, also a merchant. Many of his grandsons, namely, Dr. Charles Watson, Thomas I. Fontaine, Robert A. Lavalle, Edmond

Lavalle, Richard Hunter, William Hunter, Louis Hunter and F. E. Watson, were still living in New Madrid in 1893.

Col. John H. Walker, one of the most prominent men of the country, a man of enormous physical and mental ability, settled at Little Prairie, which was then an Indian trading post. There he farmed and raised stock, accumulating a great deal of property before his death. During that time, too, he served in the legislature from the district now occupied by New Madrid and Pemiscot Counties.

Col. Walker, who was about 17 years old at the time of the New Madrid earthquake, was on a hunting expedition across the Mississippi river on "Reel Foot Bayou" in Tennessee with a Canadian named Baptiste Thibault. When the second shock appeared, Walker, "unusual to his habits, fell on his knees, amidst the rocking of the immense forest trees, crashing and breaking of their branches, and the earth around him trembling, sinking and spouting up volumes of water, and was devoutly offering prayers for his salvation". When Thibault observed him, he cried out, "Monsieur Walker, what for you pray now, now you die you pray, what for you not pray dis long time ago. Get up and take care of your limbs". Whether from prayer or advice, Walker was unharmed by the quakes.

When he died his property was inherited by his only child, Mary, who had married the Rev. George W. Burky of St. Louis. Numerous of his nephews and nieces, among them Thomas H. Dawson and Mrs. W. W. Waters, lived in New Madrid County.

MAJESTICS TO BE MADE AND SOLD AS BEFORE

It has been erroneously thought by some people that when the assets of the Grigsby-Grunow Company were sold yesterday, the Majestic radios and refrigerators which it manufactures will no longer be made and distributed.

The property, consisting of real estate and buildings, accounts and notes receivable, good will, patents, trade names, trade marks, copyrights and design applications, machinery and equipment, radios, and a large inventory of raw materials and completed merchandise, will now be managed by other officials; and the big concern, the operation of which has involved more than a million dollars, will continue as have other businesses, such as railroads, after they have gone into the hands of receivers.

Girl Marvel!

Born in Chicago and reared in rural communities, Athleta, the aerial star of the Russell Bros. three-ring circus which will be here April 24, decided she could fling herself in the air and turn a half somersault and catch by the heel of one foot on a swinging trapeze bar. Of course, for many weeks she spent more time in a net into which she constantly fell than in the air. She was not frightened, however, because when younger she had swung on tree branches high above the ground and on loose ropes and vines. She was determined, too, and now she rarely fails to perform this feat, which is the climax to her aerial act.

No member of Athleta's family has ever been connected with a circus, and the girl, receiving, in addition to a good education, music and voice training, was discouraged from entering the profession of which she is now a member. She likes it, she says, because it allows her to remain outdoors a great deal. There she can swim or pursue her hobby of tinting photographs.

In an interview she was asked if she were not afraid while she performed her feats. "I satisfy myself that my rigging and conditions are safe," she said, "I go about my work with an earnest desire to entertain and thrill, and I trust the unknown quantities or hazards to a kind Providence who has up to the present been very gracious to me.
